

GREENHOUSES & GARDEN PAVILLIONS

IMPORT REMARK :

This export catalogue is based on the consumer catalogue for Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxemburg and France.
The product related information is subject to variations, a.o. in terms of guarantee, prices, assembly, delivery etc. according to the country where the catalogue shall be distributed.

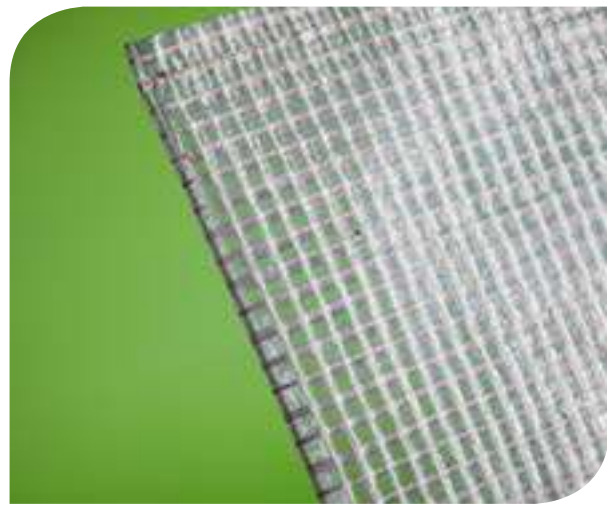

URBAN

The trend is unmistakable, people are increasingly moving into the city and gardens are becoming smaller. The urban range caters entirely to this need. With the compact and trendy-looking 'glass houses' called Piccolos, anyone can start his own urban farming.

Its 'halved' version, the Miccolo, was specifically designed for even narrower balconies or terraces. This version is attached to the wall by its tallest side.

FILM

- + The cheapest greenhouse construction
- + Ideal protection against the wind
- + Light, hence easily transportable and moveable
- Limited life time
- Impaired light transmittance
- Condensation water is not evacuated and drops may fall on the plants

POLYCARBONATE

- + Light material
- + Easy assembly
- + Almost unbreakable
- + A more constant temperature
- + Low energy cost
- + Longer gardening season
- Limited light transmission
- Condensation and algal bloom
- Subject to ageing signs

HORTICULTURAL GLASS

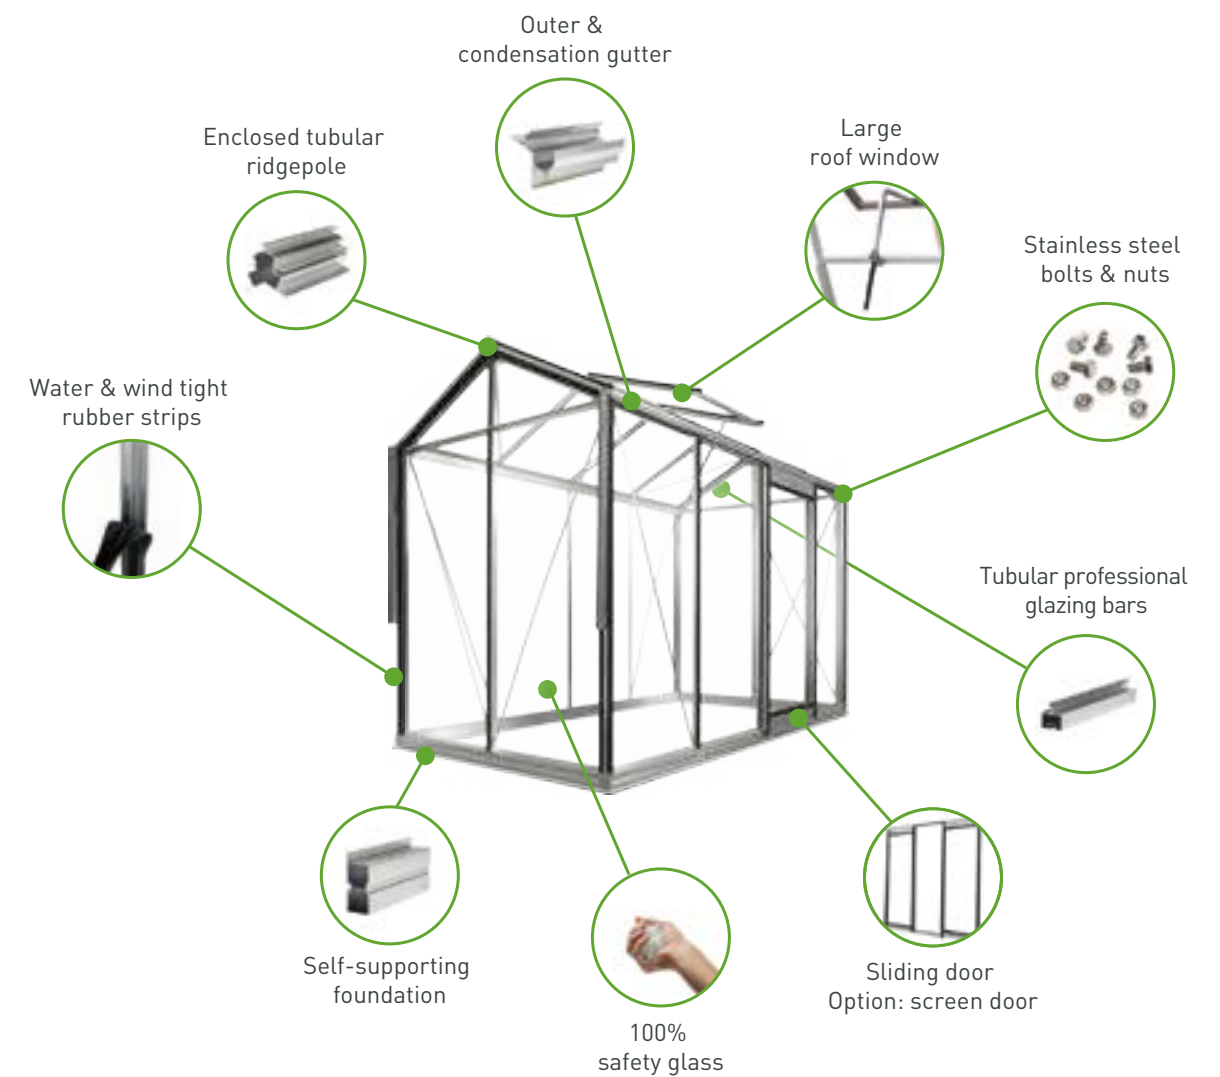

- + Maximal light transmittance: up to 90 % of the available light
- + Glass captures the solar warmth
- + Glass does not age
- + Hammered glass in the roof breaks the solar radiation
- + Cost efficient investment
- Breakable, in large and sharp pieces
- Weight (a solid frame is required)
- Difficult to move
- Sharp edges

SAFETY GLASS

- All benefits of horticultural glass, plus:
- + 7 x stronger than horticultural glass, 5 x stronger than float glass: important in case of hail, during work in the greenhouse, falling branches, snow charge,...
 - + Safe during the assembly
 - + Safe for playing kids
 - + Maximal longevity
 - + Increased price/quality ratio
 - Impossible to cut
 - Weight (a solid frame is required)
